Design and inspiration

The Uilas and Uilas Noches Rugs are an extraordinary textiles collection using traditional Colombian materials and techniques to create distinctively modern pieces. Textile designer Mae Engelgeer created an abstract shape inspired by the landscapes of the Huila province, which is characterised by the contrast between the Rio Magdalena and the Tatacoa desert. Dry figue fibres are used to recreate the colours and shapes of the desert and the natural virgin wool symbolises the lushness of the river valley. For some extra spark, the Uilas Noche pieces are interwoven with metallic threads that shimmer gently. Each rug is available in three sizes and will add a fascinating texture to any room.

About the designer

Dutch designer Mae Engelgeer felt always drawn to textiles – from her school days through her studies at the Amsterdam Fashion Institute to her Masters in applied art at the Sandberg Instituut. Since opening her studio in 2013, she has been driven by her interest in traditional craft techniques. Using yarns, colours, patterns and fabrics, she pushes the boundaries of textile production to adapt old techniques for the modern day. Mae Engelgeer's signature style combines subtle colour palettes, patterns and linear elements.

Craft and manufacturing

Each rug is woven by hand in production facilities in the provinces Santander and Boyacá. In both regions exists a long tradition of working with fibres that are made from the leaves of the fique plant. For this rug, our artesanos and artesanos combine these natural fibres with dyed wool threads to create the asymmetrical piece. The preparation of the raw materials alone takes up to five days and the weaving and braiding of the rug takes between 20 to 30 days, depending on the size of the final rug.

Care instructions

Some shedding will occur when vacuuming the rug, especially in the beginning. Only vacuum the on a low suction setting. To protect the colours, avoid exposing the product to direct sunlight over long periods and change its position regularly so the colours age evenly. Protect the rug from rain or wet conditions. We also recommend using an anti-slip underlay to reduce dust collection. Only use a professional rug cleaning service for the entire rug. The dimensions can vary minimally as each rug is made by hand.

Do not alter it yourself, as this could damage the knotting.
